Paul C. White represents national and international corporate clients in a wide variety of cases, including product liability, mass tort, and toxic tort litigation.

Mr. White's product liability experience includes mass tort litigation involving pharmaceuticals and breast implants, as well as defending medical device cases. In the area of toxic torts, Mr. White's practice has focused primarily on asbestos-related personal injury and wrongful death litigation in diverse industries such as automotive, construction, heavy industry, and marine/naval equipment. Mr. White has successfully defended clients in state and federal court in venues across the country. He is the author of several published legal articles.

Mr. White was awarded a BA from the University of California at Berkeley in 1995. He received another BA, in government and politics, from the University of Maryland College Park, in 1996, where he was a member of the Dean's List and was named Outstanding Senior in his department. Mr. White was awarded his JD from Georgetown University Law School, in 2000, where he was an articles editor on the Journal of Poverty Law and Policy and member of the Georgetown Negotiations Team. Prior to college, Mr. White served on active duty in the United States Army, where he was awarded the Army Commendation Medal upon being honorably discharged.

Mr. White is admitted to practice in California and before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and the U.S. District Courts for Northern, Southern and Central Districts of California. Mr. White volunteers with AYSO, America's largest youth soccer organization.
